

Transition Town training answers the question: How can our community respond to the challenges, and opportunities, of Peak Oil and Climate Change?

Four Key Assumptions of the Transition Initiative Process:

- That life with dramatically lower energy consumption is inevitable, and that it's better to plan for it than be taken by surprise.
- That our communities presently lack the resilience to enable them to weather the severe energy shocks that will accompany peak oil.
- That we have to act collectively, and we have to act now.
- That by unleashing the collective genius of those around us to creatively and proactively design our energy future, we can build ways of living that are more connected, more enriching and that recognize the biological limits of our planet.

Learn from experienced trainers Michael Brownlee and Lynette Marie Hanthorn, certified Transition Trainers and co-founders of the first official Transition Initiative in North America.

Saturday & Sunday, April 18 & 19, 2009

City Hall Council Chambers, Bloomington City Hall, Bloomington

This workshop fulfills the training requirement for initiating local Transition groups.

Learn now, apply your skills here, take it with you, Be ready to foster Transition wherever you go.

Cost $225. Deadline April 6. If extra space is available, late registrations will be $250. Some partial scholarships.

For registration or more information:

transitiontraining@permacultureactivist.net, 812-339-0383

Tuesday March 24 "Crude Impact" or "A Crude Awakening: The Oil Crash"

Thursday April 9th "The Power of Community: How Cuba Survived Peak Oil"

(Join us for a free viewing of these films at the Monroe Co Public Library Auditorium at 7PM)